ADDITIONAL GROUP AT EACH RALLY

In addition to the standard format of our regular rallies, we plan to introduce a separate class that will cater for people not quite ready to join the current lessons. This will run at the same time schedules as the usual classes.

It will be a flexible concept depending on the level of interest (numbers) and what people want to achieve on the day (how settled the horse is and/or confident the rider is). In some instances there will be just one class on others there may be two. There will possibly be the opportunity to transition to our normal flat class after one session in the "Settling In" class. Instructor details will be notified once numbers are confirmed.

The concept will be totally flexible and decisions on how it will work will be made once we have bookings and know what each rider's situation is. After consultation with the instructor and the riders a decision will be made as to whether led or ridden activities (or both) are provided.

Some examples of situations where this class may be useful;

- New riders to NARC
- To settle down a potentially excited horse
- First outing with a new horse
- Horse returning from a break
- Young and green horse
- Not sure about communication between you and your horse
- Looking for a transition from CBG to other activities
- Want a slower start to your rally day
- You or your horse not sure about working in a larger group

Bookings for this class will be through the normal email bookings@northernadultridingclub.org.au

Once bookings are received, you will be contacted to discuss what you wish to achieve from the class. For phone enquiries prior, please contact Norma Cormican 0412 845 375

HELMET STANDARD

Helmets with the EN1384 standard are NOT be permitted under EA's General Regulations.

As per the EA General Regulations, Equestrian Australia highly recommends the use of helmets that conform to Australian Standard AS/NZS 3838, as this standard provides for more stringent testing and further periodic retesting.

Temporary European Standard VG1 has been added to the General Regulations effective immediately.

This ruling applies to Northern Adult Riding Club members.

At the time of the Australian announcement, Equestrian Australia recommended the use of helmets that conform to Australian Standard AS/NZS 3838. However, helmets are generally certified by the country in which they are manufactured; hence it is unlikely that any helmet made in Europe is likely to be certified by this standard. Not necessarily because they don't satisfy the same safety requirements, but simply because it is more viable for the manufacturers to have them certified in their own countries (especially considering the relatively limited Australian market).

Here are some of the standards you might come across, and what they mean

- AS/NZS 3838 (including SAI Global Mark): this is an Australian standard and is generally only used by helmets manufactured by Australian companies.
- SNELL E2001 and ASTM F1163: these are current American standards.
- PAS 015 and VG1: these are current British and European standards respectively. VG1 is an interim standard.
- SEI, SAI and Kitemark are not standards, they are quality marks. They represent voluntary safety certifications that are additional to the compulsory standards. These quality marks indicate that the company complies with rigorous system of further regulation and testing. The Kitemark also requires an unrestricted access to the factories to allow for random testing and auditing.

Each of the individual standards has their own criteria and tests that place more or less emphasis on different helmets and various types of injuries. For example, they will examine how much of the head a helmet covers, how a rider falls and onto what type of surface, how a helmet moves, and how severe an injury riders' can expect to receive from that fall.

TRADERS' TREASURES

WANTED: Good home or cheap agistment for aged warmblood x mare

Tango has been used as a companion horse with me. She is very friendly and gentle. Very easy to handle, rug, trim hooves and worm. Easy keeper, lives on grass and hay with small amount of pellets in winter. Very healthy. Enjoys being around people. Excellent with other horses, dogs, cats, kids and other animals. Comes with winter and mid-season rugs.

Horse is currently on free agistment at my place, but I'm unable to keep this going as I have another horse moving in.

She deserves a good retirement home as she's a lovely old girl.

If you can help, please contact me. Thank you.

Louise Moylan ph: 0428 101 076
